

Never Again: we march with you

Penny Stone, March 2018

Ever since that day you went to school and had to hide away,
Send a message, say goodbye, in case today became the last day of your life,
So many people try to tell you you're too young to know –
You can show them how to lead, help this movement grow.

Keep on marching for your lives,
Shine a light on all these lies.
“Never again. Never again. Never again.” We hear you cry,
Keep on asking these politicians “Why? Why? Why?”

Don't let another human being fall down to the floor,
Because the guns kept shooting faster, and they never changed the law.
All those thoughts and prayers they claim to send won't ever mend a bullet hole.
Legislate to change the rules, don't let congress be bought and sold.

Keep on marching for your lives,
Shine a light on all these lies.
“Never again. Never again. Never again.” We hear you cry,
Keep on asking these politicians “Why? Why? Why?”

So many of us walk beside you, near and far away.
Stay strong, hold on; the truth you speak it has to find a way.
Keep calling out the greedy bastards holding onto yesterday.
Crying out their right to play with guns means more than your life.

*In Columbine, Virginian Tech, and in Sandy Hook,
Your brothers and your sisters in that Orlando nightclub,
Stand beside you when you scream “we've had enough.”
Stand beside you when you scream “we've had enough.”
The men and women praying in Charleston and Sutherland Springs,
The women in Montreal, the children in Dunblane and the students on Utoya Island,
Stand beside you when you scream “we've had enough.”
Stand beside you when you scream “we've had enough.”*

Keep on marching for your lives,
Shine a light on all these lies.
“Never again. Never again. Never again.” We hear you cry,
Keep on asking these politicians “Why? Why? Why?”

I hope that you have time to grieve when this long day is done.
Keep the ones that you love close until this battle's won.
(I know that) Some of you lost friends and brothers, sisters, valentines,
Keep the flame of hope alive, let your love shine.

Keep on marching for your lives,
Shine a light on all these lies.
“Never again. Never again. Never again.” We hear you cry,
Keep on asking these politicians “Why? Why? Why?”
Keep on marching for your lives,
Shine a light on all these lies.
“Never again. Never again. Never again.” Never again. Never again. Never again.
